Dear Judge Wood,

A member of the court recently issued a search warrant (please excuse if the wrong term as I am not an attorney) which was used by the Department of Justice to seize certain records from the office of Attorney Michael Cohen in New York.

I understand that you are handling the case.

If I believe that records of other clients, not covered by the search warrant or in any way connected with the investigation covered by the search warrant were improperly seized by the FBI agents, can you issue a bench warrant for the arrest of the FBI agents who conducted the operation and force them to return the documents?

It would seem ludicrous to ask the FBI to investigate and arrest their own people for illegal activities.

I assume there is no legal prohibition to raise this issue in the press.

Thank you very much.

Very truly yours,

Michael London
